§2.6 Excluding a Member	Members who consciously or through their actions work against the Social Sciences Student Union and it's purpose as well as statutes may be excluded from the Social Sciences Student Union.

3. Order of negotiation

§3.1 Application	The regulations in this chapter should be followed by all of the Social Sciences Student Union's bodies, unless otherwise is stated.
§3.2 Voting	At meetings, all present members of any given body have one vote. Power of attorney may not be used. Protocol of votes should be used if a member of the body move for it.
§3.3 The Handling of Errands	Decision points that have not been notified in the agenda within the given time frames may not be raised unless there is a qualified majority in favour of it.
§3.4 Definition of Majority	A majority vote means more than half of the casted votes. A qualified majority vote means three-fourths of the casted votes. Blank votes counts as casted votes. Unless otherwise stated, decisions are made with a majority vote.
§3.5 Elections
§3.5.1 Eligible Candidates	Unless otherwise decided, people who have been nominated by the nomination council or submitted a counter candidacy no later than eleven business days before the meeting are eligible for election.

§3.5.2 Election Procedure	First, the proposal from the Nominating Council shall be held against rejection in an open vote. If the proposal is rejected, the meeting shall sift out a new proposal through the Borda voting method. The members rank as many candidates as there are available positions on a ballot. The ranking is then converted into points and the candidates with the most points become the new suggestion. In case of a tie for the last available position, a new round of Borda is held between the candidates with the same number of points. After this process, an open vote is held where each candidate must gain a majority to become elected. If a candidate does not receive a majority support, the position is left vacant.
§3.5.3 Ballot	A ballot is only used when a proposal is sifted out through the Borda method. In case the ballot contains more names than the number of available positions or if the ballot cannot be interpreted, the ballot is declared invalid. It is allowed to rank less names than the number of available positions as long as the states names are ranked from the top. Otherwise, the ballot is declared invalid.
§3.6 Bias	A person who is about to vote is considered bias if the matter concerns themselves or their partner, children, sibling or someone else to whom they have an intimate or related relation, or if the matter can be expected to result in clear benefit or damage to themselves or someone with whom they have an intimate or related relation. Each member of a body who is eligible to vote is responsible for the announcement of bias and must abstain from voting in case of being bias.
§3.7 Point of Order	A point of order concerns the form of the meeting and how it is held. Points of order can be brought up anytime and is given priority before the currently handled matter.
§3.8 Ajourn	A question of ajourning a meeting is brought up in the form of a point of order. No longer than five business days after the decision of ajourning the meeting, the chairperson of the meeting must decide when to resume the meeting. In case of disorder, the chairperson has the right to ajourn the meeting without bringing it up for decision.
§3.9 Protocol	Meetings held within the bodies mentioned in §1.2 Organisation must be documented with a decision protocol, which shall be published after certifying.

§3.10 Reservation	A member of a given body, who do not agree with the decision, have the right to make a reservation. The member is then freed of responsibility for this decision. Reservations should be handed in to the secretary of the meeting before the signing of the protocol is done.
§3.11 Note to the Protocol	A member of a given body have the right to leave a note to the protocol.
§3.12 Meeting Behind Closed Doors	In case of the handling of a personal matter, the meeting can discuss in privacy behind closed doors. This decision must be made with a qualified majority. A personal matter does not refer to an election. No decisions can be made behind closed doors.
